

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SATURDAY, JUNE 18, 1966.

WILSON WILL VISIT JOHNSON IN JULY

Talk With President Called Part of Regular Ties

By DANA ADAMS SCHMIDT
Special to The New York Times

LONDON, June 17—Prime Minister Wilson will visit President Johnson in Washington during the second half of July, it was announced at 10 Downing Street today.

Mr. Wilson will cross the Atlantic, a spokesman explained, not to deal with any particular problem, but because of the "continuing relationship between our two countries, I am glad to say."

Since the war, consultations between the President and Prime Minister once or twice a year have become "a kind of routine," he said.

This will be Mr. Wilson's fourth trip to Washington since he took office in October, 1964. His visits are more frequent than those of his predecessors because President Johnson has chosen not to leave the United States.

The Prime Minister's last visit was last December when Rhodesia and the United Nations oil embargo against the Rhodesian regime were his main preoccupations. Now quiet talks—technically informal talks to find out whether a basis for formal negotiation can be found—are going on between Britain and Rhodesia and many observers believe a deal is in the making.

Mr. Wilson's main concerns at present are Britain's role in the area east of Suez and the pound sterling. The east of Suez situation is complicated by simmering revolt in Mr. Wilson's own party against the burden of Britain's continuing defense role. The health of the pound is affected by the pressures of the seamen's strike and continuing unfavorable balance of payments.

Since Mr. Wilson's trip will come a few weeks after President de Gaulle's visit to Moscow, the President and the Prime Minister may also face a new stage in the French distaste with the North Atlantic Alliance.

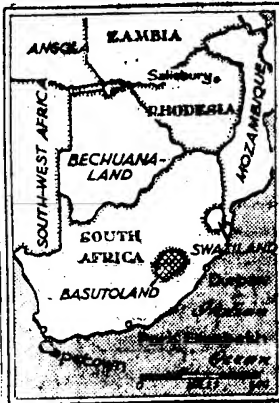

The West German Chancellor, Dr. Ludwig Erhard, will be visiting Washington soon after Mr. Wilson.

Irish Make Ancestral Home Of Woodrow Wilson a Shrine

STRABANE, Northern Ireland, June 17 (Reuters)—Woodrow Wilson's ancestral home, from which his grandfather emigrated to Ohio, was dedicated as a national monument here today by the grandson of the late President.

The tiny, thatched farmhouse, set among the hills of County Tyrone, was the home of James Wilson, a printer who crossed the Atlantic 160 years ago to

Basutoland, as Lesotho, Independent on Oct. 4

The New York Times June 18, 1966
Basutoland (cross-hatched).

Special to The New York Times

LONDON, June 17—Basutoland will gain independence and become the nation of Lesotho Oct. 4, the British Government officially confirmed today at the end of a constitutional conference on the future of the small southern African nation.

The conference had been marred by a walkout of the Opposition parties from Basutoland, who charged that Britain was rushing the country into independence. The result, they said, would be a sham independence, throwing the black government to the mercies of white-ruled South Africa, which entirely surrounds Basutoland.

Fred Lee, Colonial Secretary, denied that the Government was trying to unburden itself of the territory prematurely. The present schedule, he said, reflects the wishes of the majority of the Basuto Parliament and previous agreements with the country's leaders.

RABORN REBUFFS FULBRIGHT PANEL

Says Senate Should Decide Who Gets C.I.A. Data

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—The Director of the Central Intelligence has informed the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he is willing to give it "substantive intelligence information"—but will not disclose "sources and methods," which he reveals to another Senate committee.

And that, Adm. William F. Raborn said in a letter Wednesday to Senator J. W. Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, was the only kind of question the committee asked that he refused to answer at a February briefing that helped trigger the current Senate clash over who supervises cloak-and-dagger activities.

The exchange of letters, which was learned today, between Admiral Raborn and Senator Fulbright was interpreted as probably killing the last chance for a compromise that would avert a Senate floor fight between the two committees on the touchy issue.

Up to the Senate

Admiral Raborn put it diplomatically: "I have previously stated, once before your committee, that Senate supervision of the agency (C.I.A.) seems to be one which the Senate itself would want to resolve."

In attempting to keep the Senate from resolving it with a potentially embarrassing floor fight, the Senate Democratic leader, Mike Mansfield, has tried to work out a number of compromises.

Senator Fulbright's group has argued that because of its jurisdiction over foreign relations it should have some role in overseeing activities of the intelligence agency.

He and some committee members were disturbed when Admiral Raborn acknowledged in the February briefing that he did not feel he could give them as detailed information as he gives the Senate's executive C.I.A. watchdog subcommittee.

That committee, headed by Richard B. Russell, Democrat of Georgia and chairman of the Armed Services Committee, opposes a resolution approved by Senator Fulbright's group to add three of its members to Senator Russell's seven-man panel.

In what apparently was a compromise move, Senator Fulbright wrote Admiral Raborn Monday and said "it has been suggested" that he find out whether the agency would give its recognition to a C.I.A. subcommittee set up by the Foreign Relations Committee.

In the response two days later Admiral Raborn said of the February meeting:

"The questions to which I stated I was unable to respond were questions directed to the activities of the agency as to 'sources and methods,' rather than to substantive intelligence information."

He said in declining to answer these questions he was following past practice and added, "the subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee, according to my understanding, is responsible for Senate oversight of C.I.A. and was thus the Senate body to be so informed."

U.S. Aids Hong Kong Homeless

HONG KONG, June 17 (AP)—The American Consul General gave a check for $4,385 to the Community Relief Trust Fund today to assist people affected by devastating rainstorms this week. At least 55 people were killed and more than 5,000 people are homeless.

designs

from Denmark
18/8 stainless
functional corn, especially everything else
ice tongs (7/8
order both pos

ellie
cont

137 east post

sorry he c.s.d.

"Custom Shirts at $7.50?"

Do you need a quarter size collar? a high collar? a lower collar? Do you know which collar suits you best? Do you need a 32½" sleeve? a smaller body? a larger body? a tapered waistline?

Custom Shop makes it all so easy—you get precisely what you want and, in addition, individual guidance from an expert designer. Prices are incredibly low; the same as ready made of comparable quality. Domestic shirts begin at $7.50, imported shirts begin at $9.00—based on cutting any four shirts with two collar styles, slightly higher if fewer shirts are ordered.

Twenty-eight years of shirtmaking know-how has established our reputation. Our quality is superb and if you've never had your shirts custom-made, this is the time to try it and see

REAL ESTATE

Tired of reading the "Times" report?
VACATION HOMES
RELAX! Here are King-
To Meet Every Need

Barry Lakes has over 1000 acres of beautiful miles of lakefront and lakeview homesites. Living only, areas for those who would like plan for future winterizing, areas for comp

GROUP #1
Homesites for Summer Homes

'1190 to
'1490

GROUP #
Homesites for Summer
Now, with later conv
"All-Year"

'1490
'1990